Artist Biography (Please provide a short biography about yourself and your craft):

I have severe learning disabilities, and I just recently got a job and got fired. This is the one thing that's always giving me freedom with no limitation is painting, drying and photography. I took a class in photography and loved it and I got it and was told that I was very creative But recently since I got fired I was out painting outside And I'm living in a hotel and play a few people walk by and say that it was beautiful and one gentleman tell me have a website to go sell my artwork at. I've never felt good enough to try to place any of my are out in general public. So I made myself show my art to folks that I do not know and I have gotten really good feedback. I am again extending outside of my comfort zone I'm sending you my artwork and if I get approved then I will be selling it on a regular basis and I no longer will have financial limitations by getting fired because I can't understand math and I'm ADD and dyslexic So I am putting my self outside my comfort zone with an open mind either way But as far as the actual painting goes paintings that I do I put 100% of how I feel and what I see outside the box into each and everyone of my paintings. Thank you sincerely I hope I put everything together correctly
