The Story of Treasure Island

Our Free Gallery in Building One:

Our current exhibition, You Are Here: The Story of Treasure Island, is the first stop for many tourists and new island residents.

Illustrated with images and artifacts from the museum's archives, it is a comprehensive introduction to the history of this unique island and community.

Can't make it to the museum? This content also available online.

Celebrating Fleet Week on Treasure Island:

RADM John Bitoff and RADM Doug Moore, who serve on our advisory council, will join representatives from the museum's leadership team to honor those who lived and served on Treasure Island with a free public program about life and legacy of Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, as well as a tour of Naval Quarters One on Yerba Buena Island, now known as the Nimitz House.

KEEPING THE OCEAN AT BAY

LEARN HOW TREASURE ISLAND IS BEING
REBUILT WITH SEA LEVEL RISE IN MIND

Our next exhibition and upcoming public programs:

We received a grant from California Humanities to create an exhibition on Sea Level Rise, how underserved communities will be impacted, as well as how Treasure Island serves as a model for adaptation and mitigation strategies.

The grant award includes funds for paid internships for youth from the T.I. community to develop and lead concurrent public programs.

An impressive donation of legal documents and related artifacts:

The descendants of Alan G. Wright, Esq. recently donated a wealth of documents related to legal work he supervised for the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, including blueprints, correspondence, photographs, patent applications, and concept art.

Given the depth and breadth of this collection, it will take months for our staff and volunteers to accession, catalog, and annotate all of these historically significant artifacts.

The example seen here documents one of the more amusing copyright protections and brand distinctions Wright secured; it grants exclusive use of the words "Treasure Island" to the organizers of the fair.
