Issues/ concepts

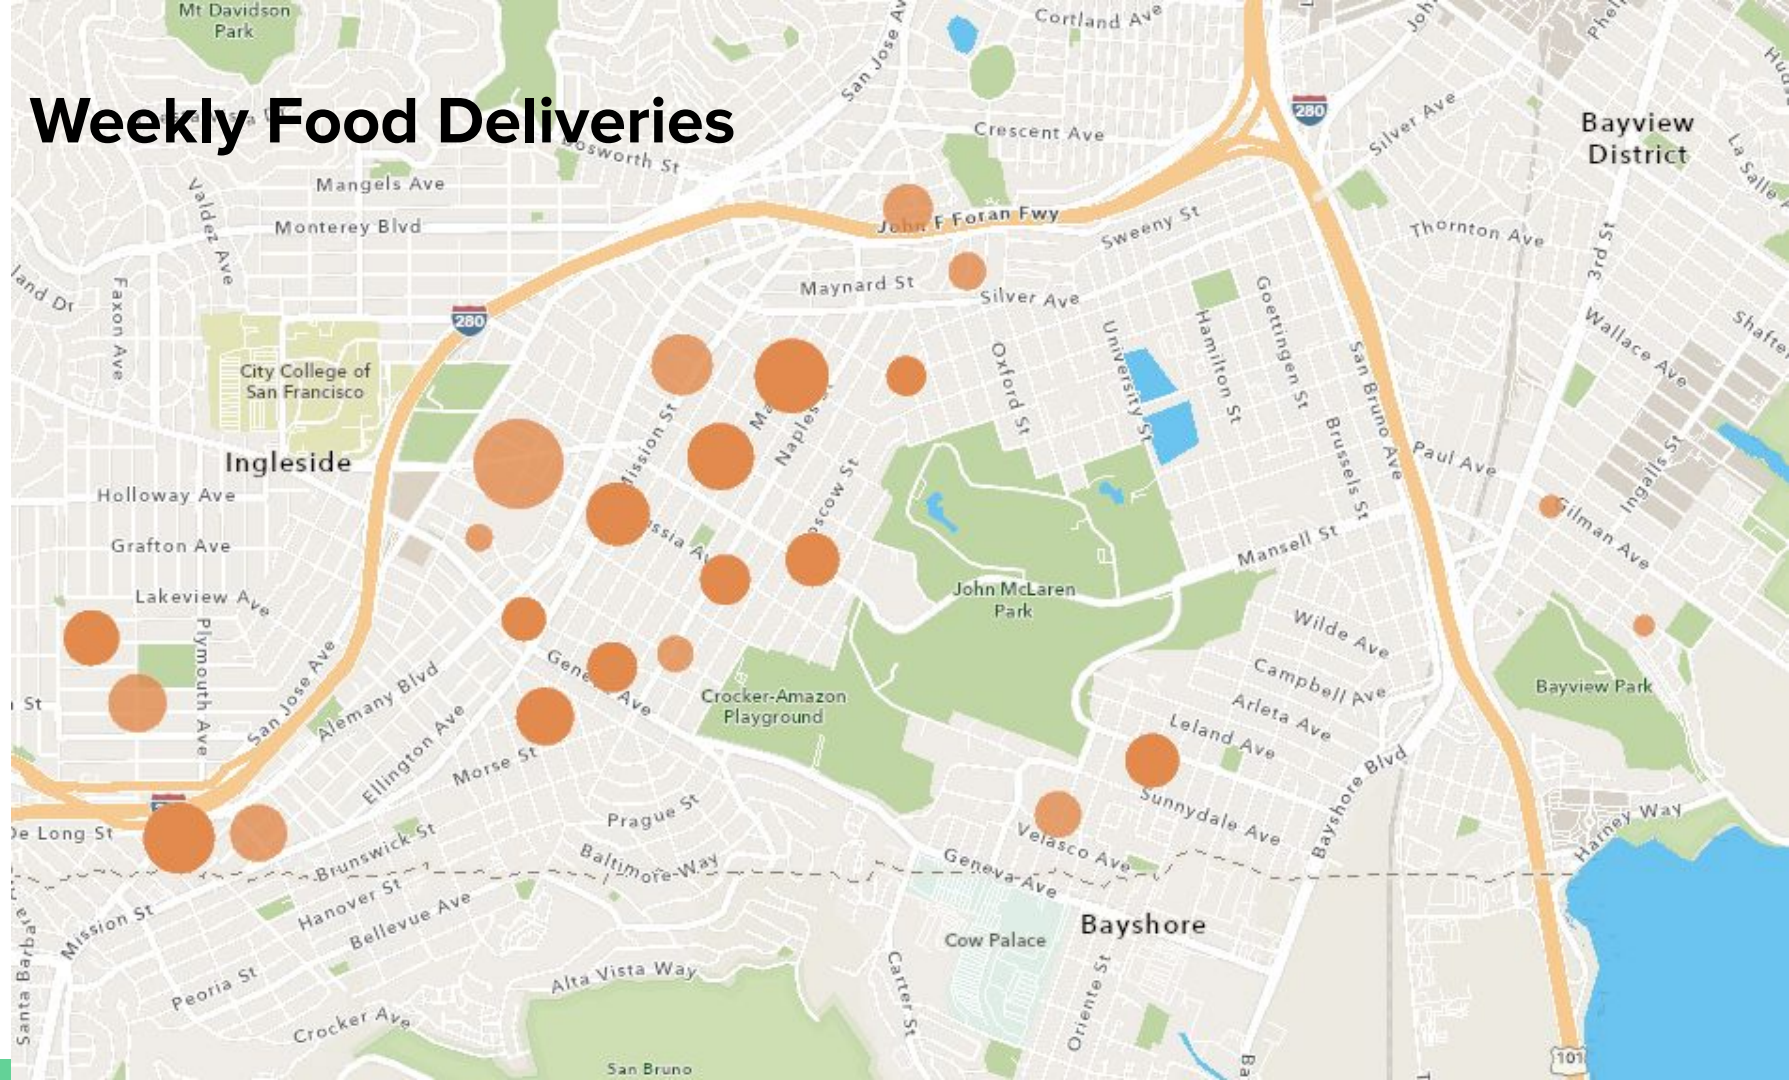

Many people in the community aren't able to provide their families with enough food.

Through partnerships and volunteer efforts, we are able to help people obtain access to healthy and culturally appropriate food.

Weekly Food Deliveries

Excelsior Strong Aunties

Our crew of moms, aunties, students, and retired ladies shows up weekly to unload and distribute food to our neighbors CON AMOR Y DIGNIDAD.

Balboa High School PULSE Program

- Balboa High Students walk over every Wednesday as part of a class where they receive school credits for serving the community. They prepare healthy snacks and juices for the volunteers, and help make food bags for clients..

SF Marin Food Bank

Through our partnership with the SF Marin Food Bank we have unloaded and distributed 9,000 - 12,000 pounds of food weekly.

SF Marin Food Bank

In the past 2 years the SFMFB has given us more than 1 million pounds of food for D11 Families..

Donation Pick Ups

Through a partnership with the Department of the Environment we are able to fund pick ups of donations from wholesale and tier 1 grocers.

- SB1383 is now requiring large grocery chains to lessen the 40% of food that goes to waste.
- The SF Produce Market is a public/private partnership that donates thousands of pounds of food per day

- Local farms and gardens like Hummingbird Farm pick up our food waste for compost and wormfood and use our leftover cardboard for mulch.

Whole Foods Donations

Using These Skills in the Future

The skills we acquired from working at casa de Apoyo are improving our community skills, working better as a team, and having a better work ethic. During our time at our committee, we have learned how important communication is. We have helped each other understand the information we are given like what food we pack. We learned to rely on each other an example could be when we had to transfer boxes from a truck into the building. We all create a line and pass the boxes relying on the person to keep the line moving. We have improved our work ethic because we now see how other people rely on our work so we have to keep working.

THANK YOU!
