“sfHealthConnect” is a website where you can read your online medical record. If you gave another person access to your online medical record, you always have the right to take away that access. “sfHealthConnect” may have sensitive information you want to keep private.

If you have your own “sfHealthConnect” account, change your password and do not share it with anyone. This will prevent the other people from reading your record. The other people can still read their own online medical record.

If you do not have your own “sfHealthConnect” account, complete this form and bring or mail it to your clinic. It may take up to 3 days to turn off the account.
